

ACCESS TO SERVICES

72%

of respondents reported challenges in accessing children's services

43%

of respondents highlighted longer than expected wait times in accessing virtual healthcare

22%

reported a lack of a centralized place to access mental health and well-being resources

FAMILIES' WELL-BEING

66%

of respondents reported difficulty managing work & children as the top mental health stressor

Commonly reported mental health symptoms were:

Stress

Burnout

Frustration

NEW MOTHERS' HEALTH

47%

of respondents reported disruption and delays in services such as:

- New mothers counselling
- Infant wellness checks
- Mental health support
- Postpartum care after birth

Services Accessed Before and During the Pandemic

CHILDREN'S WELL-BEING

Children's mental health was the topmost concern mentioned by three-quarters of respondents

Nearly one-half of respondents were concerned about their children's poor ability to manage their emotions

"I am worried about my child's mental health. She is only 3. I am especially worried about her interaction with other children and don't know how to facilitate a meaningful engagement while keeping her safe."

- Mother of a child